About

ZenToy is an electronic music band based in Brussels. After several experimentations and the release of singles that have enabled the project to find its way, the band released its debut album in April 2015.

Best Kept Secret was composed in a hyper-productive short time period, but is also the result of a long journey since the release of the first single. It's finally a reflection (not without self-mockery) about the difficulty for an "emerging" band to be noticed.

Next level... Mad Love is the second album of ZenToy. Unlike the debut album, the creative process took more than a year. Why? There are similar sounds to those found on the debut album, but the way the tracks were composed has totally changed. So, instead of systematically using binary rhythms, running around 120BPM, the entire album was conceived on the basis of live drums, BPM variations, and the use of chords. As a result, a more organic approach, for a complete new journey.
